

Geography

As with History, Geography forms part of the school's cross curricular approach. Pupils are encouraged to develop a lively and questioning awareness of their local surroundings. Their interest and knowledge of the variety of physical and human conditions will extend from their local environment to the national and international scene. Within the places studies, children will acquire the skills necessary for the interpretation of geographical information and for geographical enquiry.

Walks, guided visits, regular surveys and residential visits all contribute towards a growing awareness and appreciation of the child's environment.
